

DEMOCRATIC LEADER DISCUSSES PLATFORM

Rights Should be Preserved in States' Control of Corporations---Party Stronger Than in 1896 or 1900

Silver Issue Will Not Enter Into Coming Cam- paign---Mr. Bryan Would Make No Pre- diction as to Nomination.

(By Rosewell Field.)
Lincoln, Neb., March 16.—"In the long run a party's strength must depend on the popularity of its policies, and, measured by this rule, there is no doubt that the Democratic party is much stronger than it was either in 1896 or 1900."

Such was the confident assertion made by Mr. Bryan in the library of his home in the outskirts of Lincoln. "So far as the issues are concerned," said Mr. Bryan, "the platform adopted in Nebraska last fall covered these issues, I think, in a very satisfactory manner as they were presented then. Not to specify everything," he declared for a vigorous enforcement of the criminal law against the trusts, insisted on further prohibitive legislation to restrain corporations from contributing to campaign funds and favored the election of senators by direct popular vote. "It argued for an immediate revision of the tariff by a reduction of import duty, spoke for an income tax as a part of the revenue system and protested against government by injunction."

"These and other issues found in the platform were, I repeat, presented satisfactorily, with the exception of the subject of interior waterways. I am very much in favor of appropriations for the improvement of the Mississippi, the Missouri, the Ohio, and such other streams as can be made useful for commerce."

"The saving would be very great, and a plank covering this subject should be added to the Nebraska platform."

"Since that platform was adopted the panic has come on, and it has brought forward two questions which are now being discussed more than they have been in recent years, namely, emergency currency and the protection of depositors."

"I think these questions will enter into the coming campaign, and I am fully in sympathy with the position taken by the Democrats in the senate and house in favor of United States notes instead of bank notes for emergency currency."

"Whatever emergency currency is issued ought to be issued by the government and controlled by the government in the interest of the whole people. It should not be issued and controlled by banks in their own interest."

"The Aldrich bill is bad in that it provides for the issue of bank notes as emergency notes, and it is also bad in that it permits the use of railroad bonds as a basis of security. I believe that only state, county, township and municipal bonds should be used."

"It is possible that the loans might be made to clearing houses without security, if the clearing houses are authorized by a sufficient number of banks to make the government absolutely secure, but the question of security may be easily determined if the right of the government to issue the currency is admitted."

"There is one other question," Mr. Bryan continued, "which has grown in importance since the Nebraska platform was written and that is the question affecting the relative spheres of the state and the nation. I believe that the Denver convention should take strong ground in favor of preserving to the states all the rights they now have in the legislative control of corporations and that federal remedy should be added to state remedies and not submitted for them."

"What then do you consider the paramount or most absorbing issue of 1908?"

"The only issue," Mr. Bryan replied quickly, "which manifests itself in all the other issues is this: Shall the government be administered for the protection of the rights and the advancement of the interests of the general public, or shall it be controlled by the representatives of corporate wealth and administered in the interest of the few? The trust question, the tariff question, the labor question and all other questions involve this issue. All the abuses of which people complain rest upon the privileges and the favoritism secured by favor seeking corporations, and these privileges or favors are always at the expense of the masses."

"You have been quoted as saying that the silver issue will not enter into the coming campaign."

"Yes; I have said that, and repeat it. The silver issue grew out of the scarcity of money, because this scarcity of money lowered the level of prices and increased the purchasing power of the dollar."

Bringing the conversation down to a personal basis, Mr. Bryan was asked as to his probable nomination at Denver.

Mr. Bryan—"I would not care to make any prediction in regard to my position in the campaign." He said, "While all the delegates so far selected have been instructed for me, only a few states and some scattering districts have acted."

WIRE TAPPING MADE IMPOSSIBLE

Government Official Tests a Teletype System With Code Message in New York Office.

New York, March 16.—Wire tapping will be made an impossibility by the adoption of rapid automatic telegraphy reaching a speed of 1000 words a minute. This is one of the minor results from the introduction of the Delany system by the new telegraph company, the Teletype.

All teletype messages by this system are sent backwards and automatically reversed at the receiver. This alone will puzzle a wire tapper, even if he could read as rapidly as 1000 words a minute. This is, of course, an impossibility, except for the mechanism, that records the electric signals on the sensitized moving tapes.

Another advantage possessed by the automatic teletype apparatus, is that it can handle code messages as readily as ordinary messages. This has just been practically demonstrated by a government official, who as a test, had the Teletype company transmit an intricate code message over the artificial circuit equal to 500

CONTRACTS WILL BE MADE WITH OPERATORS BY DISTRICT PLAN

Indianapolis, Ind., March 16.—As a result of the police sent by Ohio operators that they will not meet the miners to negotiate on a scale until after April 1, when President Mitchell retires and the present scale expires, the miners' national convention will probably decide to make contracts with other districts where operators are ready to sign up then concentrate their fight on the Ohio operators. It is expected that such recommendation will be made by the scale committee when it reports tomorrow and that the National convention will promptly ratify the report. Under this plan miners would sign up in other districts as readily as possible and when Ohio operators got ready to treat the miners figure that they will be glad to meet the workers' demands, as other states will be cutting in on the Ohio trade.

ROOSEVELT CHARGED WITH PLANNING A TRUCE WITH TRUSTS

Washington, March 16.—Charging President Roosevelt with being "drunk with power," and with now being engaged "in a bold and unblinking effort to dictate his successor in the White House or compel his own re-election for a third term," Senator Tillman today characterizedly denounced the executive's encroachment, which had been made successful through the improper use of federal patronage. Referring to the President's avowed purpose of amending the Sherman act, the senator exclaimed, "If he has his way, we will soon see in this country such combinations as will produce a practical consolidation of all the railroads of the country." He charged that the President "is now planning a truce with the rich malefactors," and that he is ready to grant amnesty to all past trust offenders.

Inmates Escape by Fire Escapes and Over Roofs—Alleged Firebug Being Held.

New York, March 16.—An attempt was made this morning by an incendiary to burn a six-story tenement building in which 12 families lived. Seven separate fires were started in the basement with oil-soaked refuse. Flames cut off the stairways, but all the inmates escaped by fire escapes or over roofs of adjoining houses. Two passersby caught a man who rushed out of the basement following the start of the fire with clothing and hair ablaze. The police are holding him, although he claims to have himself been a victim of the fire.

POSSE CAPTURED

Bank Robbers Turn Tables and Take Pursuers Into Tow—Escape on Stolen Horses.

Ochelata, Okla., March 16.—Eight miles southwest of Ochelata last night the three bandits who, Friday, robbed the bank at Tyro, Kansas, and secured $2,500 captured three of a posse of six men who had gone out from Ochelata to capture them.

The posse was divided in two sections of three men each, and came sauntering down a lane toward Candy Creek. Suddenly three rifles faced the first section and they heard a command to "throw up your hands." They did so at once. The men riding a short distance behind fled, leaving their companions at the mercy of the bandits, who compelled the three men to give over all their firearms. They destroyed the rifles, but kept the citizens' revolvers and then took their best horses.

The citizens were allowed to depart. Henry Starr, the bandits' leader, is tapping the wires to get the plans of his pursuers.

A posse of 100 men is about to leave for Bib Heart, hoping to surround them.

Sorts Out the Booty

Disguised as Inspector Robber Overpowers Two Clerks in Charge

Leaps from Car Near Spokane and Leaves No Trace for Officers.

Spokane, Wash., March 16.—In the guise of a postoffice inspector, a bandit obtained admittance to the postal car on the Great Northern Oriental limited at Bonner's Ferry, Idaho, at an early hour Sunday morning, overpowered the clerks at the point of a gun, locked one in a closet, bound the other and put him under the table and calmly rifled while the train was proceeding to Spokane.

During the run to Spokane of over 100 miles, which required over six hours' riding, the robber received the mail at the three stations where the train stopped and threw off the paper mail.

Just before the train entered the yards of Spokane, the bandit leaped from the car and with his booty in a small satchel, which he carried when he entered the coach at Bonner's Ferry, made his escape.

Draper's bloodhounds were taken along the rich way of the Great Northern and picked up the scent within the city limits less than a mile from the Great Northern station. They followed it several blocks to a car line where the scent was lost. It is supposed that the robber boarded a car and rode downtown.

Six registered mail sacks were cut and their contents rifled. All were for points on the coast. The sacks for Spokane not being disturbed. It is not known how much money and valuables the bandit obtained, but he is supposed to have made a big haul.

In opening the sacks with a knife he sustained a severe cut on his hand, supposed to be the third finger of the right hand. He bled freely from the wound and the mail he took was covered with blood. It was from this blood that was not yet dry that the dogs were given the scent.

When the train reached Spokane John Nystrum, one of the postal clerks, was found locked in the clothes closet while Benjamin Stamp, the other, was under the table with a pump handle over his head and his arms tightly bound with a clothes-line rope that the bandit brought with him for this purpose.

New York, March 16.—With a voice so low that she could scarcely be heard, but never hesitating in her answers, Helen von Hagen, 16 years old, on whose charge of misconduct Raymond Hitchcock is on trial before Judge Blanchard and a jury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme court, told in detail of meeting the actor, friend and entertainer of her and her friend at his home in Great Neck and other events of their acquaintance. Hitchcock was perceptibly nervous while the girl was on the stand.

Helen von Hagen said she was now in charge of the Gerry Society, but had been committed to the House of the Good Shepherd last year. She was born on July 27, 1891, and had formerly lived in Great Neck where she had seen the defendant. She left school when 14 years of age and was one of a family of eight children.

As the result of the admission of Flora Whiston that she had told a false story before the grand jury, Raymond Hitchcock, comedian, was charged by the jury, which was trying him for wronging Helen von Hagen this afternoon. The district attorney was ordered to investigate the charges of intimidation made against agents of the Gerry society. Flora Whiston was arrested this afternoon on a charge of perjury.

REPORTED CONSULATES HAVE BEEN ATTACKED

Censorship Strict in Haitian Capital and Definite Information is Lacking--- Official Massacre of Natives

French, German and American Warships Expected At Once---British Send Cruisers on Receipt of News

Kingston, Jamaica, March 16.—Wild rumors are circulating here of attacks on residences of foreign diplomatic representatives at Port au Prince and Gonaives, Haiti, and of further official massacres of natives suspected of participation in anti-government conspiracies.

So strict is the censorship out of Port au Prince that definite information is lacking since the news of yesterday's summary execution of nine suspects, and the government's subsequent written demand on the German and French ministers for the surrender of all revolutionists harbored with them.

In the existing state of disorder it is feared that all the foreign residents of Port au Prince, Gonaives, and perhaps other Haitian towns must be in the gravest peril. It is believed the legations and consulates are prepared to resist attack. The British cruiser indefatigable, which recently arrived here from Port au Prince is making preparations in a desperate haste to return. French, German and American warships also are expected at once.

London, March 16.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Asquith today informed the House of Commons that the cruiser, indefatigable, and armored cruiser Crescent have been ordered to Haiti.

HORRORS

Of Asylum Describ- ed by a Former Patient

REASON HAS RETURNED

Yale Graduate Tells of Many Punishments Inflicted

Book Pronounced One of Most Wonderful of Present Cen- tury On Insanity.

New Haven, Conn., March 16.—Clifford W. Beers, '97, is making his life work the reforming of insane asylums after a career reminiscent of Monte Christo.

Afflicted by a suicidal mania on the eve of his class triennial at Yale, he leaped from a fifth story window breaking his leg. His injuries left him violently insane and he was taken to a private sanitarium and finally to the state asylum at Middletown.

After three years of confinement there, most of the time in a strait-jacket he was released.

In a book, "The Mind That Found Itself," he tells of his mental struggles, his hallucinations, and finally, when he awoke sane in the asylum, his determination to study insanity, till he was freed.

His book has been pronounced one of the most vivid studies of a mental state since De Quincey's "The Confessions of an Opium Eater."

Prof. William James of Harvard and Prof. Thomas Lunsbury of Yale, have written that it will live as not only a literary classic but as one of the greatest human documents existing on the study of insanity.

Beers' aim in writing the book is both to inscribe the first mental studies of insanity ever made by a scientific observer, himself a patient, when he recovered his full mental power, and to form a national organization after the plan of "The Committee of One Hundred on Health," which shall take charge of the reform of insane asylum abuses.

Mr. Beers demands the creation of a national blacklist for brutal attendants which shall make it a criminal offense for a doctor to employ an attendant who has been removed from an insane retreat for brutality to a patient.

Beers is a nephew of ex-Governor Samuel E. Merwin, to whom he dedicated his book. He was editor of the Yale Record while in college.

How closely his book resembles that of De Quincey is seen in the conclusion: "The field is before us. The disgrace of the facts of which I have related are but a few still cries to heaven. Though the days of dungeons, manacles, shackles, ropes, straps and chains have in the main, passed, it should yet be borne in mind that our great hospitals, with their beautiful grounds, are too often but cloaks wherewith a well intended, but blind civilization, still covers a hideous nakedness."

"This cruel and deceptive cloak must be torn off. Let these mysteries be converted into open truths and fairness."

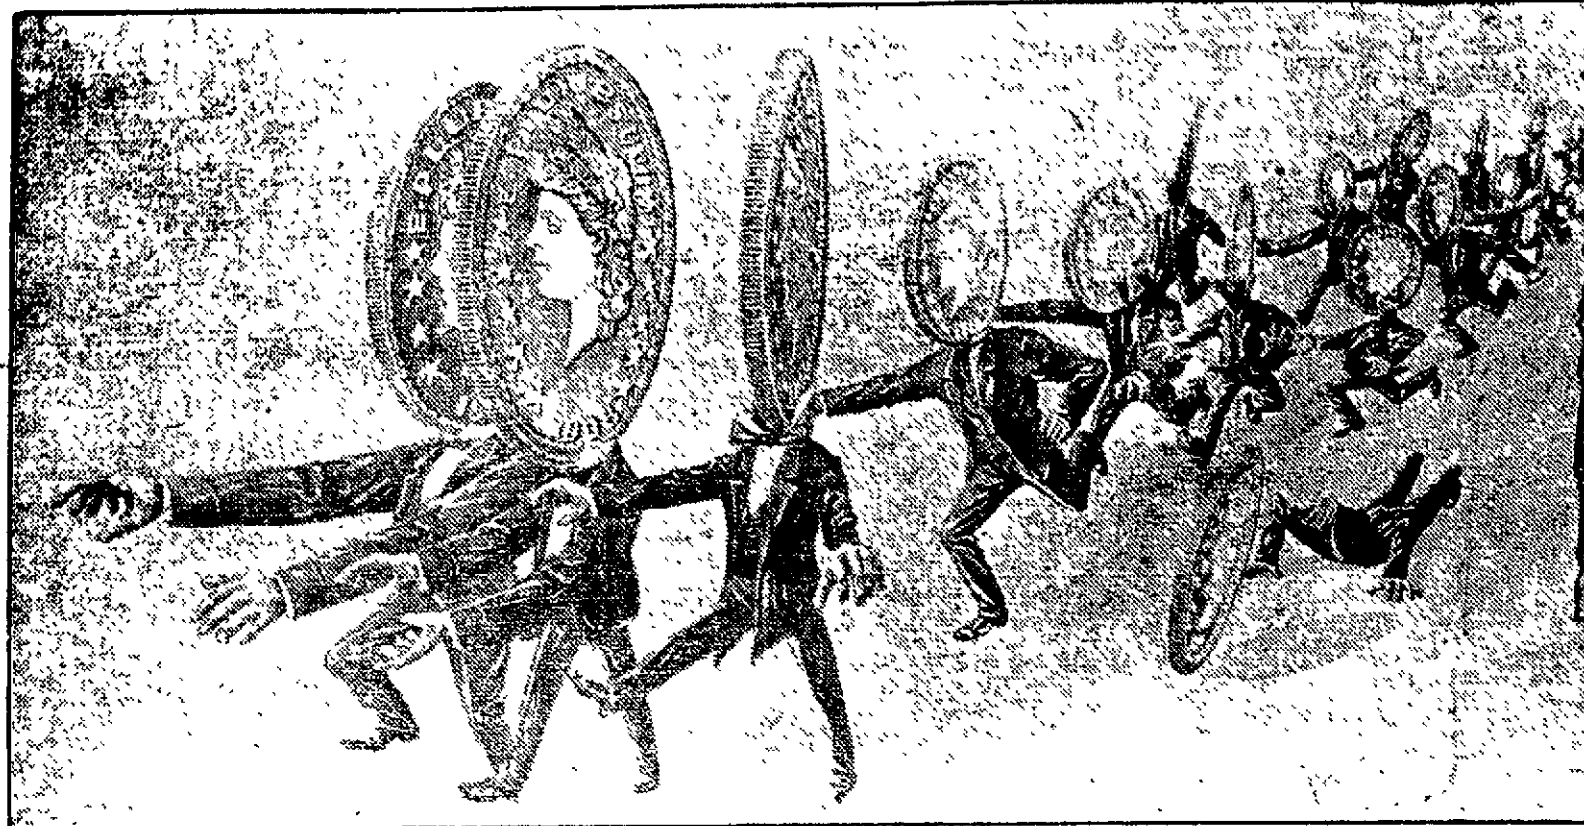

"That the public has long been deceived by appearances is not surprising. For, even I, in walking casually through the wards of such a hospital, find it well nigh impossible to realize that many of the inmates are subjected to even mild abuse."

"Even I, who have suffered the most exquisite torture from 'muffs' and strait jackets to 'camisoles,' have in my several tours of inspection at state hospitals, looked upon a patient so bound with a feeling rather akin to curiosity than sympathy."

"So innocent do these instruments of restraint appear when one views a victim for the few moments it takes to pass him by. It is little wonder that a glib tongued apologist of 'restraint' may easily convince one that the bound patient is, in fact, better so. Nevertheless he is not better so."

AMUSEMENTS

"We Never Sleep" is a beautiful, interesting detective play of four acts, which will be presented tonight by the Partello Stock company, at the Auditorium as their closing performance. There is plenty of heart interest of the heroic kind, startling climaxes and pleasing situations, also an abundance of comedy to please everyone. Alice Kennedy has an interesting role in Anastasia Binn, that fits this dainty comedienne to a nicety. Nothing but the highest praise can be said of Miss Kennedy for her clever work. She is without any possible doubt the greatest star in repertoire that has ever visited Newark. Her support in tonight's bill is the same powerful cast that has been pleasing immense gatherings all week, which certainly have made a good impression with Newark theatergoers. Mr. Partello is to be congratulated on having such a clever company of artists. His scenic embellishments have been of a high order and a strong welcome awaits him when he plays Newark again.

One lady admitted free tonight with every thirty cent ticket.

OUR NEW MINISTER.

"Skessicks," the breezy New York archer drops into Hardscrabble looking for work. The boy is about 18. Only by suggestion now, and then does he suggest the gamine raised in New York's Bowery, in his manner of expressing some of his words. Otherwise he is a cheery, self-reliant, witty youngster with self-confidence enough to tackle any job. He is absolutely without fear, and has no respect whatever for the treasured traditions of Hardscrabble. There is no class distinction in his lexicon. Age is not entitled to any more deference than immaturity with him. He has a youthfulness of vulgar things fairly accurately of intention. To him, a wink is as good as a shout to a deaf and dumb house. His smartness is most pronounced in repartee. His argo is profuse in slang, clean slang that gets there. He himself appears to be under the influence of the fun he is over making at the expense of his host. The new minister, Hartley, comes in for a share of the fun.

tempt and suffers most in an amusing way at his hands. The boy is dress-carelessly, but clearly. The cheer of the character is further emphasized by a larkish whistle that keeps him company on his errands when he is loafing about smart sayings with the village folk. At the Auditorium, on Tuesday evening, March 19.

THE BEAUTY DOCTOR.

The big musical number, "Good Bye Jennie Jones," is the great song hit of the season in Fred E. Wright's production of "The Beauty Doctor," which will be presented at the Auditorium, March 20, for the benefit of the local stage employees. Given with unique stage "business" the song is one of the laughing successes of the comedy and will be whistled everywhere.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

Charles Klein's play of American politics and business, "The Lion and the Mouse," will be the attraction at the Auditorium next week. The play will be produced under the direction of Henry B. Harris. "The Lion and the Mouse" is well known to everyone throughout the country and is a proof that the money devil who outside his own hemisphere has hitherto chiefly occupied the lecture platform, the pulpit and the press, has at last found his place upon the stage. The seat sale is announced for Friday.

LENA RIVERS.

"Lena Rivers," soon to be seen at the Auditorium is dramatized Mary J. Holmes' popular novel, one of the prettiest love stories ever written. This season Burt and Nicolai, the well known New York producers, are starring Miss Rose Lubonn in the play. She is one of the youngest and most magnetic actresses on the stage and her success in this part has been almost phenomenal.

MRS. FISKE IN APRIL.

Manager Johnson of the Auditorium, today received his contracts for Mrs. Fiske's engagement at that house for the second week in April. That celebrity is playing her new bill "Rosmersholm," undoubtedly the strongest play on the American stage today. As much as the "syndicate" has barred Mrs. Fiske from their theaters in Columbus, Zanesville, and other neighboring cities, these cities will undoubtedly contribute not a little toward this wonderful actress' audience in Newark.

RECREATION AT ORPHIUM.

In my opinion the literal meaning of "recreation" is to recreate, and as recreation and amusement go hand in hand the profession of furnishing entertainment for mankind is virtually an upbuilding and uplifting calling. This point was brought out more pronouncedly by the entertainment which was given at the Orphium today. It is the sort that stirs blood in one's veins, sends thrills through the system and inspires activity of thought and action. And it was plain to be seen that the patrons enjoyed it from start to finish. Bissonette and Newman, the West Point cadets, were well received as were Buster and Kelly Sterling. Buster is a mere child, being only six years old, but to sit and listen to his jokes and see him dance you would think he was an old time professional as he gets away with a big laugh. Kitty is also very clever, both as a singer and dancer. Adair and Henney comedy sketch artists, crack jokes with a liveliness that makes one forget all his troubles. Miss Henney, who essays the sorbrette part has everything any theater goer could command, a pretty face, bewitching manners and the figure of a Diana. Phil Morton pleased all present with his rapid fire talk while his singing was far above the average. The show as a whole seemed to give entire satisfaction to the matinee patrons.

Itching piles provoke profanity, but profanity won't cure them. Doan's Ointment cures itching, bleeding or protruding piles after years of suffering. At any drug store.

THOUGHTS ON BUSINESS

BY

WALDO PONDRAY WARREN

FROM ACORN TO OAK

SOME of the greatest business enterprises in this country have grown out of very simple ideas. The secret of success in many such cases is nothing more nor less than doing an old thing in a new way.

Many years ago a man got the idea of selling goods to merchants in assortments instead of leaving it to the merchants to pick out each individual item of their stock. He began by selling twenty-dollar assortments of notions. The idea appealed to the merchants, and the business prospered, until to-day it has surpassed the most extravagant dreams of its founder.

Another idea that grew out of this one has also gained extraordinary dimensions. The success of the "5 and 10 cent counters" gave another man the idea of the "5 and 10 cent stores," and that idea grew until he now has a chain of more than 140 of these stores reaching all over the country.

Still another idea that has reached vast proportions in various lines of trade is the factory that sells directly to the consumer.

It is hardly possible that all the big fundamental ideas of this kind have been thought of at this time. Successes just as great are doubtless waiting for men who can think of other ideas—ideas that will serve a widespread need.

TOLEDO BLADE BOLTS NOMINATION OF GREEN FOR STATE TREASURER

The Toledo Blade, one of the leading Republican newspapers of the state, thus denounces editorially the nomination of Charles C. Green for State Treasurer by the late Coxbossed Republican State Convention.

The State Treasurer.

"The taxpayers of Ohio are beginning to wonder what State Treasurer
McKinnon does to earn his salary.
Certainly it is a queer situation when he must call on the bankers, where the state deposits in their possession, formation concerning the amount of the state deposits in their possession, because no such information is on record in the treasurer's office, where,
of all places, it should be.

"Likewise the taxpayers of Ohio will begin to wonder if it is necessary to make appropriations for every task assigned to the state auditor.
The law provides that an annual examination be made of the treasurer's office by the auditor, and Mr. Mc-Kinnon testifies before the Senate committee that no such examination has been made during his term. The reason assigned being that no appropriation had been made for the purpose. But is not that the duty of the state auditor's force? Does the law contemplate that this work must be done by extra clerks under the supervision of the auditor? And, even in that case, is it not the duty of either one or both of these officials to call the legislature's attention to the need of such an appropriation?

"It may be that this flagrant example of official negligence has been handed down from generation to generation, but even that does not excuse the present treasurer and auditor who, knowing the law and the reasonableness of it, have made no serious efforts to see that it is enforced.

"It is becoming more apparent every day, as this investigation progresses, that in respect to its candidate for treasurer, the man who has been deputy under McKinnon and who is therefore, in part, responsible for the loose methods in vogue in the treasurer's office, the Ohio Republican convention committed a serious blunder.

"If Mr. Green has not the good grace to withdraw from the ticket the state committee should find a way of forcing his retirement."

THE GOOD BIRDS DO.

Leander S. Keyser, an authority on birds, and a well known lecturer, recently gave out the following interesting statement.

It would not be a hard matter to prove, in fact, it has been scientifically demonstrated time and again, and every farmer knows it without the aid of the scientists, that the destruction of the robin and other native birds here in the north has much to do with the destruction of fruit trees and native vegetation of all sorts.

"The cherry that we begrudge the robin, the portion of apple that we would deny the woodpecker, is saved at the expense of the trees which bear or staple fruits. Go into any orchard and note the worm-girdled trees and the tale is soon told. When men and boys destroy the birds, they destroy much more. When we destroyed all the native forests our loss was greater than the mere lumber.

"We have wandered so far from nature in these respects that it is doubtful if we ever get entirely back again. Man's achievements are indeed wonderful, but there are some things that we have denied nature, the right to do that we cannot do ourselves. Perhaps if we could give back to the birds their lives we would now gladly do so, for we have learned from costly experience that in our fight with the vegetation-destroying insects, the birds are our best allies."

BANDIT

It was then that the story of the robbery was first learned.

When the train stopped at Bonners Ferry about 4 o'clock Sunday morning a man came to the door of the postal car and threw in a mail sack and a small grip, announcing that he was
C. W. Bennett, a postoffice inspector.
"I will return in a few moments and ride with you to Spokane," he said to Nystuen, the clerk on duty at the time. Stumpf, the other, was asleep under a table covered with mail sacks.

Nystuen glanced at the man's sack and observed that it bore the name of Bennett. It was a newspaper mail sack, such as railway postal employees carry their belongings in.

Just before the train departed from the Idaho town the man entered the car.

"Is there any mail for me?" he inquired of the clerk.
"There ought to be some for me.
Please look."

Nystuen looked over some mail and when he turned around to inform the supposed inspector that there was none he found a big revolver pointed at his head. After waiting the clerk to make no outcry and learning that another clerk was aboard, he directed Nystuen to get into the closet in which there was barely sufficient room for a man to stand erect.

When the supposed inspector first appeared Nystuen awoke Stumpf and informed him that an inspector was to ride with them to Spokane and that he would awaken him again shortly.

Ignorant of the daring robbery that was going on in the car, Stumpf continued to sleep lightly. When the train was leaving Sandy Point, Stumpf thought it strange that he had not been called and looking up from underneath the table where he was resting he saw the stranger opening letters.

As he was crawling from underneath the table, the bandit turned around, whipped a revolver from his overcoat pocket and commanded him to remain silent or he would blow his head off.

He then threw a jumper over the clerk's head, bound his hands behind him and seated him on a chair at the far end of the car with his back to the thug.

During the run to Spokane, three times he asked Nystuen whether he was suffocating, and each time being answered in the affirmative, he opened the closet door, which he had locked and tied with the clothesline, and permitted the clerk to obtain some fresh air.

IN KEEPING MONEY ABOUT THE HOUSE or upon your person there is always an element of risk. Loss by fire is a frequent occurrence; the newspapers contain daily reports of losses by theft.

Moreover, the cash in hand is in itself a constant temptation to spend—one so easily forgets how hard it was to earn and how much it would ultimately signify if added to the family savings.

It is a fact that if the average man could recover all, or even half of the money that he would admit of having spent foolishly, he would, in that sum alone, possess a modest fortune—to say nothing of the interest it would have earned had it been steadily deposited in this bank.

Granville Public Schools, Cleared in Short Order—Y. M. S. A. Reception—Granville News.

Granville, March 10—One hundred and seventy-four lives were lost in the terrible Collinwood school fire. A terrible sacrifice it was. But it seems to take more than an ordinary sacrifice of human life to bring the rest of the world to its senses. If a school house had burned and one or two children lost their lives, the world would have taken little notice of the matter, but since 174 of the dear ones were gathered to the home above at one time, the attention of the whole world is directed to the school houses for the living and to protect the living. It seems that school houses built on the plan of the Granville public school, two stories and a basement, is enough for a school house; this is an element of safety in itself. While the Granville school building is not fireproof, it is provided with wide stairs and plenty of wide exits, the doors of which open outward. Furthermore, Superintendent Clemens has ordered a fire drill, which has not been practiced regularly here to be observed once a month. A drill was had Friday afternoon and all the pupils were outside the building in one minute and ten seconds after the gong sounded. The fire drill is the only means, laying aside the relative question of pure luck, by which school children could possibly be gotten out of a burning building with the least risk of loss of life. The fire drill represents discipline, and the habit of responding to it is the only thing in case of fire that would prevent the children from rushing madly to escape from a burning building and many of them meet the same fate as the unfortunate children of Collinwood.

On last Friday evening Rev. David Dempster, pastor of the Presbyterian church gave a banquet in the parlors of the church to the deacons, the newly elected session the presidents of the different societies and the old members of the church. The affair was very much enjoyed by those who were so fortunate as to be present. With the thermometer registering 50 in the shade, that woolen underwear may feel the least bit uncomfortable, but you had better not take a chance on making the change just yet. There is every reason to believe that there will still be a few stretches of weather during which ear muffs will not feel as bad as they look.

REV. JOHN WEETER

Speaks to Large House Sunday—Local Preacher Makes a Hit Sunday Afternoon.

Rev. John W. Weeter, pastor of the English Lutheran church, spoke to a large crowd at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting yesterday afternoon. This was Mr. Weeter's first appearance on this platform and his address proved a very pleasant surprise. His subject was "The Man Worth While," from which he drew many interesting and valuable lessons. Mr. Weeter is an orator of no small ability and did the unusual thing of holding the audience for an hour with interest seemingly increasing every minute. From start to finish he was given the closest attention and when he closed they did the unusual thing of loudly applauding him. After the meeting many said, "That was one of the best speeches we have had this winter."

Next Sunday ex-Governor James E. Campbell will speak on "Public Characters I have Known." Special music is being arranged for.

Thomas A. Edison

Interesting Career of a Great Genius—His Remarkable Achievements in Electrical Science—The Man at Close Range.

By WALTON WILLIAMS.

THE inventions of Thomas A. Edison are of such universal application that they are in use wherever civilized man dwells. No man ever lived whose inventive genius conferred such vast benefits upon the race. Edison has made the world lighter, brighter and better.

First among his long list of inventions comes naturally to mind the incandescent electric light. Edison invented and perfected the electric light. This new illuminant now turns night practically into day throughout the inhabited world.

But the Edison talking machine seems to be a greater marvel. Forty years ago any person bold enough to predict that the human voice could be recorded, stored up and turned off at will again and again would have been adjudged insane. Thomas A. Edison's invention, known as the phonograph and under various other names, does precisely that. It does more. It stores up splendid music as well as simple airs and songs, so that they can be reproduced out of a tiny box through a funnel and give joy to millions who are not rich enough to attend the opera or to have costly musical instruments in their homes.

Do you enjoy the "moving pictures?" Edison made them possible. He invented the kinetoscope, by means of said, "a United States consul was usually eaten before he'd had time to open much mail." Between 3,000 and 4,000 samples were collected from this systematic search, and of all these only two or three were found to be of any use. But they were sufficient and resulted in the incandescent lamp.

A Telegraphic Feat.

An incident of Mr. Edison's early career, in which he displayed his remarkable ability as a telegraph operator, is described by a friend.

"I don't think," said he to a group seated in the rear room of one of the most comfortable hostleries of Orange, N. J., "that you have ever heard the story of how the wizard first came east. He was only a young man, careless, generous, jovial and totally ignorant of the value of a dollar. He had been knocking around in western towns in various small telegraph offices until the reputation of his wonderful swiftness as an operator got him into the central office of a western city. From there he was ordered to report to Boston to fill a vacancy. It was warm weather for the season when he started east, and he donned linen trousers and duster. By the time he reached Boston the weather had got cold, raw and stormy. He didn't care and reported just as he was. Linen trousers and duster topped by a slouchy, broad brimmed hat

"With all my heart," was the reply. "You are the first man in the country," said the instrument, "that could ever take me at my fastest and the only one who could ever sit at the other end of my wire for more than two hours and a half. I'm proud to know you."

His First Check.

During lunch some years ago the great electrician became chatty and told in his quaint way the story of his first acquaintance with any large sum of money.

It was in the days when he was struggling along with his earlier inventions and didn't have big capitalists to back him. In fact, he didn't have any bank account himself and hardly knew what one was. Bank checks were things he had never had occasion to use and knew little of their value.

Edison had finally sold his patent on the gold and stock indicator to the Western Union Telegraph company for $40,000 and was coming over from his home in Orange, N. J., to New York to get his money. He had heard of Wall street and its bulls and bears and had been told that it was full of "sharks" who would fleece a man very quick. So he made up his mind that Wall street was a very dangerous place and that if he ever had occasion to go there he would be lucky if he got away without losing his overcoat and umbrella.

At that time General Lefferts was president of the Western Union. One morning Edison came into the company's general offices to close up the sale of his patent. After a few preliminaries he was given a check for $40,000. He looked at it curiously for a moment or two and appeared to be puzzled what to do with it. He knew that he had sold a patent to the Western Union company for $40,000, but he didn't see any money.

Observing his perplexity, General Lefferts told him that if he would go down to the Bank of America, in Wall street, he could get the check cashed.

"So I started out," said Edison, "after carefully folding up the check, and went toward Wall street. So uncertain was I in regard to that way of doing business that I thought while on the way that if any man should come up to me and offer me two crisp thousand dollar bills for that piece of paper I should give him up the check very quick."

On arriving at the Bank of America he hesitated about entering, fearing still that something might be wrong. At last, however, he mustered up courage and determined to try it. He knew that General Lefferts had told him he would get his money here, so he braced ahead and half tremblingly shoved his check out to the cashier.

Willing to Give It Up For $2,000

The latter scrutinized it closely, gave Edison a piercing glance and said something which Edison could not understand, as he was hard of hearing. That was enough. He was now more than ever convinced that his check wasn't worth $40,000 and again thought as he rushed out of the bank with it that any man who would give him $2,000 could walk away with the check.

He hurried back to the Western Union and said he couldn't get any money. General Lefferts then sent a man with him to identify him. He said that "this man is Thomas A. Edison, to whose order the check is drawn."

"Why, certainly," Mr. Edison, said the cashier very obsequiously. "How would you like your $40,000—in what shape?"

"Oh, any way to suit the bank. It doesn't make any difference to me so long as I get my money."

Edison was given $40,000 in large bills. After dividing the roll into two wads of $20,000 each he stuffed one into each trousers pocket, buttoned up his coat as tightly as possible and made a break to get out of Wall street as quick as he could. The next day Edison began work on his first laboratory at Newark, N. J.

Always very jealous of his time, Mr. Edison has expected his employees to be equally careful lest a single minute that might yield an important invention should slip by. In counseling a young man he said, "The best advice I can give you is, never look at the clock."

Discouragement and worry have been unknown to the wizard. On one occasion one of his associates had to report to him the failure in immediate succession of three experiments involving enormous expenditure of money and labor. But the inventor simply smiled at the recital. The associate, worn out with the nervous strain of his long watch and disheartened by his disappointment, said impatiently, "Why don't you worry a little about it, Mr. Edison?"

"Why should I?" was the inventor's reply. "You're worrying enough for two."

Sample of His Memory.

Blessed with a most wonderful memory, Mr. Edison has been able to recall with absolute exactness intricate figures, even though he had not had occasion to use them in twenty or thirty years. An example of this happened when he was being interviewed recently. One of his assistants asked Mr. Edison concerning a certain fluid to be used in the work then under way. As soon as he had explained the trouble Mr. Edison gave him the required information. He said that some time in the thirties, when he was working on the telephone problem, he had used a fluid composed of so many parts of this, so many parts of that and so many parts of something else. He gave to the smallest fraction of a drop the exact amount of each fluid to be used.

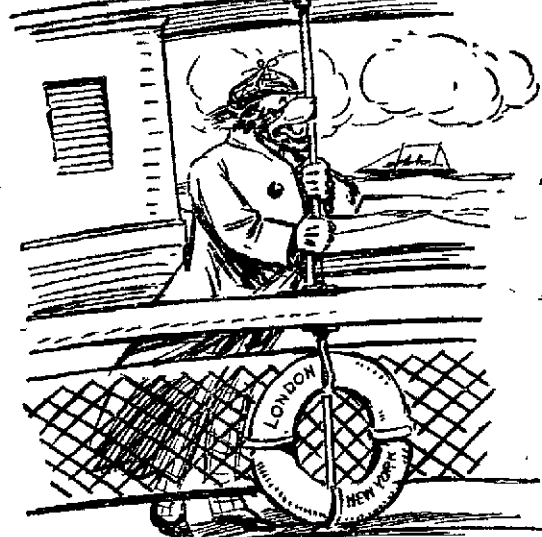

There is only one sport that has ever interested Mr. Edison, and that is fishing. In his splendid yacht at his Florida home he has been fishing once in awhile. He never played golf or any other game but he has advised others to do so.

BILLY BULL AND BERTIE BEAR

THEIR ADVENTURES IN WALL STREET

It seems to me, says Billy Bull, that Hepburn is all wrong, unless for Montreal a boom he wants to help along—'Cause that's where we will go to trade, just to save the tax, if with favor on his arguments Congress ever acts.

So both agree that Hepburn, if he gets his tax bill through, will give the trains and steamships lots and lots of things to do—And with Wall street going to England they are both inclined to think, The Stock Exchange might well be turned into a skating rink.

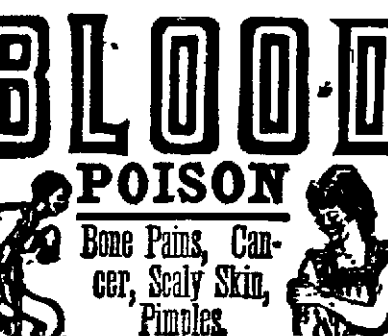

It worries me, says Bertie Bear, just as much as you, 'Cause I'd have to go to London to put all my trading through, And I must say Wall street's better for attempting such a trick, Because in stormy weather water travel makes me sick.

DEBATE AT HANOVER

On Friday evening, March 13th occurred a debate at Hanover between the Johnstown and Hanover High schools, William B. Wright, principal, presiding. The question was, "Resolved, That U. S. Grant was a greater general than Napoleon Bonaparte." The affirmative was upheld by Misses Sylvia Settles and Mabel Stone of Hanover, the negative by Misses Jessie Neff and Florence Hannahs of Johnstown. Each side was discussed in a creditable manner and the audience was held spellbound throughout.

MAY INSTALL AN ELEVATOR

TRUSTEES OF MEMORIAL BUILDING HAVE RECEIVED BIDS FOR SAME.

Old Veterans Becoming More Feeble and It is Hard Work for Them to Climb Stairs.

A great many of the soldiers have petitioned the trustees of the Memorial building to install an elevator in the building. The facts are that the soldiers are getting so old and feeble that it is difficult for them to reach their quarters on the third floor of the building. The members have asked for and have received a bid from the Otis Elevator company of New York for the installation of an automatic elevator similar to the one installed in the Sherwood hotel, and also a hydraulic elevator. It is likely that the matter will come before the Board of Trustees for final action at the next meeting.

AQUEDUCT AT BUCKEYE LAKE

To Be Abandoned—Steel Sewer to be Installed—Levy Along Sycamore Creek.

(Lancaster Gazette.)

The matter of repairs at the canal aqueduct across Licking creek just north of Buckeye Lake, as presented by Commissioners King and Schopp, and interested property owners, to the State Board of Public Works, was favorably considered by that board. The old aqueduct which has caused the collection of logs and driftwood on the upper side, will be removed and the state board will put in a large steel sewer to carry the stream under the canal. The sewer will be lower than the bed of the creek. The water will fall into it through a large catch basin and then will rise to the level of the stream bed at the lower end of the sewer. An engineer will be sent to the site this week to make an estimate of the cost.

The Board of Public Works also granted the petition of the residents of that vicinity to lower the county line bridge across the canal a short distance north of the aqueduct. The bridge was built high enough to allow canal boats to pass under it. It is located at the point the canal is crossed by the road on the county line between Fairfield and Licking counties. The cost will be paid by legislative appropriations.

Attorney W. H. Lane of Canal Winchester was before the state board at the same time and petitioned for a levy along Sycamore creek north of Canal Winchester in Violet township. He says the improvement is necessary to prevent the occasional flooding of that little city. The board agreed to pay for the improvement provided the cost does not exceed $260. The work will be done under the supervision of the local commissioners who will award the contract.

which photographs are taken with such rapidity, one after the other, that every movement of human beings, animals, machines, water, trees and anything that stirs is recorded, to be reproduced exactly and accurately over and over again, just as the human voice is stored and reproduced by the talking machine.

In the telegraphing line Mr. Edison's inventions are numerous. They include the printing telegraph, the quadruplex telegraph, the carbon telegraph transmitter and others. Edison also invented the useful mimeograph and the handy megaphone.

Pumped Concrete House.

Among the latest of the great wizard's works is the pumped concrete house. The claim made for this process of house building is that in half a day a three story dwelling may be constructed by pumping concrete into molds at a cost so low that any workman may own his home. Thus Edison reproduces houses—any number from the same mold—just as he reproduces the human voice and other sounds and the movements of men and things.

Still another of the later achievements of the wizard is an electric storage battery which, it is claimed, will revolutionize the motor industry, making it possible for the poor man to own and operate an automobile for business or pleasure.

The most striking instance not only of Edison's persistence, but also of his systematic methods, is seen in the accounts of the invention of the incandescent lamp.

The filament gave him the greatest trouble, and in his search for suitable material he sent hundreds of letters to United States consuls in all parts of the world, requesting samples of bamboo, reeds and other vegetable fibers, and he followed this up by dispatching special explorers to search wild and uncivilized countries where, as Frank McGowan, one of the explorers, were't the fashion in Boston in the best of weather, and on a raw day a man with limp, wet duster on and wet linen trousers sticking to his legs was something to provoke a smile. He walked into the superintendent's room and said:

"Here I am."

"The superintendent eyed him from head to foot and said:

"Who are you?"

"Tom Edison."

"Who's Tom Edison?"

"The young operator explained that he had been ordered to report for duty, and the superintendent told him to sit down in the operating room. His advent had created much merriment, and the operators gazed him long enough for him to bear them. He didn't care, though. Several hours later a New York sender noted for his swiftness called the office, and there was no one to take him.

"Well, let that new fellow try him, anyway," said the superintendent. Young Edison sat down and for four hours and a half wrote out messages in a clear, round hand, stuck a date and number on them and threw them on the floor for the office boy to pick up. The time he took in numbering and dating was the only time he was not writing out transmitted words. Faster and faster ticked the instrument, faster and faster went Edison's fingers, till the rapidity with which the messages came tumbling out on the floor attracted the attention of the other operators, who, when their work was done, gathered around to witness the spectacle. At the close of four hours and a half and the New York business there flashed from New York the salutation:

"Hello, yourself!" ticked back Edison.

"Who are you?" rattled into the office.

"Tom Edison," was ticked back.

"Shake, Tom Edison," came over the wires.

DOUGLASS WORLEY A JAIL BREAKER CAPTURED HERE

Rapist Who Escaped from County Jail
Two Years Ago is Taken
Saturday Night

Arrested on Union Street by Officers Petrey and Gorman as He Was Entering Saloon--- Has Been in Canada.

Another of the prisoners who escaped from the county jail on the morning of October 3, 1906, was captured Saturday night, when Officers Petrey and Gorman placed Douglass Worley under arrest as he was walking along Union street and about to turn into a saloon to buy a drink. He offered no resistance to the officers and was taken in the patrol to the county jail.

For two years and more the officers have been looking for the men who escaped, and so far four of the eight who made their escape have been captured. It will be remembered that the morning of the escape Turnkey Calvin Christopher was in the cell room, and was overpowered by the prisoners who were released by a trusty. He fought valiantly against the eight men, but was overcome by sheer force of numbers, unarmed and thrown into a cell and the door locked.

Of the eight men who made the break for liberty, George Moore, Max McCann, Douglass Worley, and Ed Shultz have been captured. Charles McMann, Charles McBatton, Louis Ross and a man named Starrett have not been found.

Worley was in rape committed on a woman in the West End of the city, and was never heard from by the officers. In the evening as Turnkey Christopher was sitting in the office of the jail, the telephone rang and a man informed him that he had seen Worley in the West End. Sheriff Redman was immediately notified and Captain Bell of the police department was informed by the sheriff that the man was in Newark.

Captain Bell notified all the patrolmen to be on the lookout for him, and Officers Petrey and Gorman, who have been in the western part of the city, were especially warned to be watchful. It was thought by the officers that Worley might be at the home of his brother, William Worley, 169 South Pine street.

As the patrolmen, both of whom were acquainted with the man, were walking along Union street they saw him coming and waited for him to approach. He offered no resistance when arrested and waited quietly the arrival of the patrol. When headquarters had been notified that the man had been captured Captain Bell, Wagonman Brooke and Driver Francis hurried to Union street. Instead of taking him to the city prison he was taken to the county jail and locked up.

It is said that the night of his escape he slept in Dorsey's mill, and the next night in a barn of his brother in Utica. The next day he caught a train and went to Chicago Junction. From there he went to Sandusky and then to Windsor, Canada. He stayed there until recently when he went to Delaware. When arrested and searched among his possessions was found a return trip ticket to Delaware by way of Columbus.

Officers Gorman and Petrey while on the force in Newark have made efficient officers. Mr. Petrey has made several nice "catches" during his service, and Mr. Gorman while an extra man, will probably be appointed at the first opportunity for his work so far has been above criticism.

The reward of $50 that was offered for each one of the men has been withdrawn, and while the officers will probably receive nothing for their capture, yet a great deal of credit is due them for landing the much wanted man.

Twenty-six cases comprised the docket in police court this morning, and most every kind of a case was called, although the drunks were in the majority. Fourteen intoxic. cases were disposed of and the offenders were given from $1 and costs to $5 and costs and committed to jail.

In the fighting cases Benedict Cappi was nabbed this morning by Officer McCrum and he drew $1 and costs.

Harry Kennedy and William Palmer, claiming Utica as headquarters, pulled off a Gans-Nelson bout in front of the Warden hotel Saturday afternoon when they were tanked, but they failed to notice Officers Burke and Hurlbaugh, who were standing near and were in citizens' clothes. They each drew $1 and costs and were committed to jail.

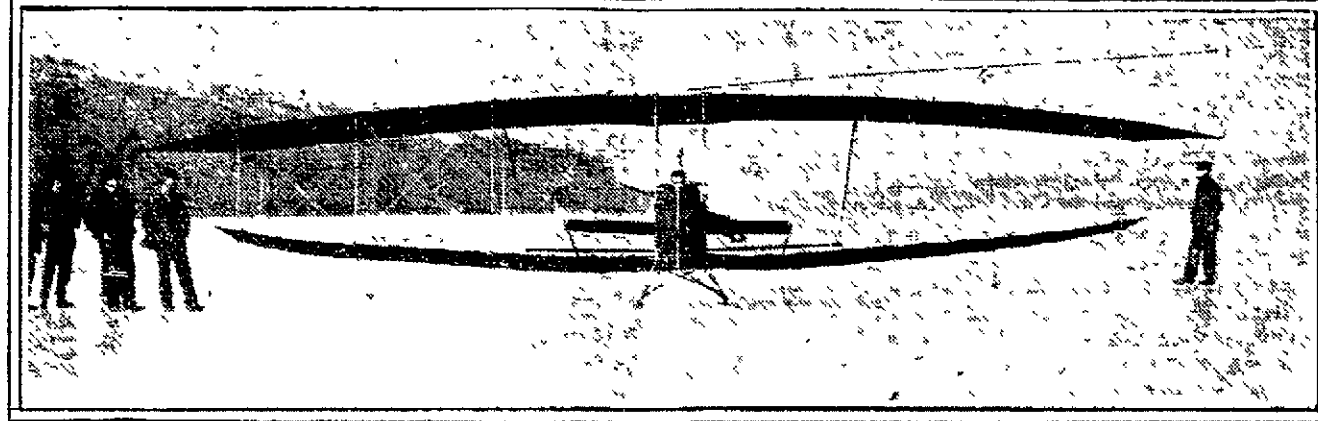

Charles Stone and Thomas McGuire, making themselves at home at the Metz slaughter house, were arrested Sunday morning at 1:40 by Officer Shively, but not until the policeman had a hard fight with them. They drew the usual fine.

Utica furnished another drunk in the person of Jack Sweeney, who was pulling off a Rip Van Winkle at the B. and O. Saturday night, where Detective Bennett and Officer Moore

REDWING MAKES FIRST PUBLIC FLIGHT

AERIAL EXPERIMENTAL ASSOCIATION'S "RED WING"

Hammondsport, N. Y., March 16.—The aeroplane Redwing, in its trial here made the first public flight of a "heavier than air" machine in America, covering a distance of 319 feet at a speed of thirty miles an hour. The trial was made on the ice of Lake Keuka, near Hammondsport. The machine left the ice before going four hundred feet and rose to a height varying from ten to twenty feet. It had perfect stability, and the flight might have continued indefinitely had it not been for the breaking of one of the supports in the rear surface, causing the machine to swing to the right and come to the ice.

MERCHANTS BUSY

Streets Filled With People Saturday
—Two Big Pay—Cleaning Day
Would be Good Thing.

Saturday brought hundreds of people down town, and all day the merchants did a nice business. Both the Wehrle Stove works and the B. & O. paid off, putting thousands of dollars in circulation. Even though the wind was high Saturday evening and dust clouds would be encountered, the streets were crowded with people. All five theatres did a big business and the stores were well filled with people.

The dust and dirt, and the pieces of paper blowing about the streets and sidewalks, proved beyond a doubt that a general cleaning day for Newark would be a very good thing. The accumulated dirt and papers of the winter should be cared for and Newark would present a very different appearance if the idea of Mayor Atherton finds public favor.

A RELIABLE SPRING MEDICINE

Recommended to the People of Newark.

At this season of the year there is hardly a man, woman or child in Newark who does not need a medicine to purify and enrich the blood, to induce an appetite, to promote digestion and create strength, and we are safe in saying we have never sold anything in our store equal to the cod liver preparation Vinol for this purpose.

The reason Vinol is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions is because it is made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cods' livers, combining with peptonate-of-iron all the medicinal, heating and body building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

As a spring medicine and a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, and after sickness Vinol is unexcelled, and you know what you are taking.

Mrs. Rose Lavigne, of Burlington, Vt., writes: "Vinol is the best spring medicine I have ever used; it creates an appetite, purifies the blood and takes away all feeling of lassitude."

We could go on quoting from hundreds of such letters, but simply ask the people of Newark to try Vinol this spring on our guarantee to return money if they are not benefited. Frank D. Hall, Druggist, Newark, O.

TRUSTEE JONES ACTS QUICKLY

A little incident in connection with blowing off of a strip of the roofing of the Memorial building Sunday morning during the storm, in which one of the trustees of the building played a part is worthy of special mention. A few minutes after the accident occurred Mr. D. L. Jones learned of the condition of affairs and in a short time had several men at work making temporary repairs so that no more damage should occur to the roof and interior of the auditorium by the wind and rain. It is such incidents as these that demand prompt attention more than anything else that qualifies a man for a responsible position in these seasons of times.

HIGH WIND

Early Sunday Morning Does Considerable Damage—Memorial Building Partly Unroofed.

The Memorial building was damaged to the amount of $150 or more early Sunday morning, by the high wind. A strip of sheet roofing 15 feet wide and 60 feet long was blown loose and doubled back upon the roof throwing several feet of the stone coping from the top of the building into the alleyway below. An unknown man was driving through the alley at the time of the accident and escaped the falling debris by only a few feet.

The same high wind spoiled the west face of the court house clock, knocking out a piece of dial between the figures V. and VI. several inches across.

Several trees were blown down over the city but no other serious damage was reported.

BENSON BIDWELL WILL PROBABLY GO TO THE STATE PENITENTIARY.

Tried to Promote Electric Line on Conduit System Between Newark and Granville.

A dispatch from Chicago says that Benson Bidwell and his son, Charles F., promoters of the Bidwell Electric company, the so-called "Cold Motor" concern, were found guilty of operating a confidence game. Benson Bidwell, who is a brother of George and Austin Bidwell, who defrauded the Bank of England out of $5,000,000, started the electric company in 1906. He declared that he had invented an electric motor that would not burn out. He also claimed that he was the inventor of the trolley car and the electric fan. Investors from all parts of the United States answered their advertisements, sending the company $225,000, according to the books of the concern.

Benson Bidwell is well remembered by the people of Granville, as he was in the village for some time about 10 years ago, endeavoring to promote an electric road between Granville and Newark on the conduit system. The offense for which he has just been convicted is punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary.
